The Conservation Federation of Missouri is now accepting applications to our premier youth program, the Conservation Leadership Corps. Now celebrating its 20th anniversary, the program has helped to grow and develop young conservation leaders. Many of the program's graduates, you may now know in the professional world. They work for many of the state and federal conservation agencies, non-profits, public schools, and are conservation-minded members of society. If you know of a young person that is currently a sophomore in high school through sophomore in college, that is conservation-minded, and enjoys the outdoors, please forward them the following information. Please also share the promotional video linked below, in it, several of our CLC alumni and current students share their stories and experiences in the program.
